 Items of Interest ***

- 1.) The PCBC will be taking a summer break from the club meetings starting in June on through August.
- 2.) Next club meeting will be on September 12 at the Northkirk Presbyterian Church in Alta Loma.
- 3.) Congratulations to all the winners of the recent local shows. You can see the results in the "Show Results" section.
- 4.) If you are planning to breed your bully, don't forget to send in your litter's entry form for next year's Futurity Stakes Match. Remember, the first half of the entry form is sent in before breeding or no later than two weeks after actual mating. The second half is sent in before the puppies are 60 days old or 10 days prior to the Futurity Match, whichever comes first.
- 5.) One more thing on the Futurity Stakes Litter Registration; Darlene Carlin retired from being the Futurity Chairperson. I would like to thank Darlene for the fantastic job she did as the Futurity Stakes Chairperson and will be missed. Kathy Lerchenmuller is the new PCBC Futurity Stakes Chairperson and I know she will do a great job as well.
- 6.) Do you have a new champion or a new litter of bullies? New Champion Brags and Litter Announcements are available in the Bullpup for just $10.00 per issue (price includes a picture of the new champion or the little ones and/or mom and dad).
- 7.) Last year the BCA Div III Rescue experienced a large number of attained dogs. Hopefully with on going education, responsible breeders, and your support, these numbers will not continue to grow. Rescue is looking for anyone willing to help on temporary basis. Any aide you can provide would be greatly appreciated. Please contact Ken Haefliger, BCA Div. III Rescue Coordinator at (805) 496-9589.

What You Need to Know About Fleas and Ticks

Pests That Feed on Your Pets

The soft, warm fur of dogs and cats provides the perfect environment for fleas and ticks. These insects feed on your pet's blood and can cause health problems ranging from allergic reactions to tapeworm infections to serious tick-borne illnesses. Both fleas and ticks are more common during the warmer months. But there are steps you can take to ward off these pests any time of year.

Flea Warning Signs: Dogs

- Flea droppings (dark specks) in the fur.
- Flea eggs (white specks) in the fur.
- Excessive licking or scratching.
- Scabs or hot spots on the skin.

Flea Warning Signs: Cats

The easiest way to find fleas on a cat is to check the belly. You may see the fleas themselves -- small dark spots that move -- or their droppings, which look like specks of dirt. Excessive scratching and hair loss are also signs that fleas may be feasting on your feline. Ctenocephalides felis is the most troublesome species in North America for both cats and dogs.

Fleas and Anemia

Because fleas can take in 15 times their own weight in blood, they can drain a significant amount from your pet. Dogs or cats that lose too much blood may develop anemia, a dangerous drop in the number of their red blood cells. Puppies and kittens are especially vulnerable. Signs of flea-induced anemia include pale gums and lack of energy.

Flea Allergy Dermatitis

Fleas are the most common cause of skin disease in dogs and cats. When a flea bites, it injects saliva into your pet's skin. This may trigger an allergic reaction called flea allergy dermatitis. Signs include intense itching, hair loss (especially just in front of the tail), scabs, and red, irritated skin, which may lead to skin infections.

How Do Pets Get Fleas?

Pets can easily pick up fleas with any time spent outdoors. Indoor cats are at risk even if they just go out on the patio or share their home with a dog. Female fleas can lay an egg every hour, leading to an infestation in a matter of days.

Fleas and People

Fleas are content to drink human blood as well and can easily jump from your pet's fur or bedding to your skin. Some people develop a severe reaction to flea bites. Intense itching can lead to scratching and skin infections. To avoid flea bites, it's essential to keep your pets and your home flea-free. For every flea you see on your pet, vets estimate there are 100 more in your house.

Fleas and Your Home

When fleas lay eggs on your pet, some eggs may fall off and hatch on your carpet, bed, or other furniture. The new fleas then target you and your pet, feed on your blood, and lay more eggs. Carpets and humid areas are favorites for fleas. So replacing carpeting and keeping your home as dry as possible may help take away the welcome mat for fleas.

Tick Warning Signs

You can feel ticks while petting your cat or dog, and you can see them with the naked eye. They most often attach near the head, neck, ears, or paws. On cats, they are typically found around the ears and eyes. Ticks can carry dangerous diseases, and it doesn't take long for a pet to pick up the disease while a tick is feeding. If you find a tick on your pet, try to remove it as soon as possible.

Safe, Effective Tick Removal

Skip gasoline, nail polish, petroleum jelly, alcohol, or a hot match. These methods can force infected fluids back into the bite. Instead:

- Use gloves or tissue to cover your hands.
- Grasp it with tweezers from the side, by its head, close to the skin.

What You Need to Know About Fleas and Ticks (Cont.)

- Pull straight up. Don't twist.
- Don't squeeze (or pop!) the bloated belly.

Wash the bite area and your hands. Mouth parts that remain rarely cause serious problems. But if you're concerned, call your vet.

How Do Pets Get Ticks?

Ticks crawl onto tall grass and shrubs and wait for a host to walk by. They can wait for a year without feeding. Dogs are most likely to pick up ticks while walking in the woods or high grass from spring through fall. Outdoor cats can pick up ticks in the same way. Ticks are more common in warm climates and certain wooded areas of the Northeast.

Brown Dog Tick

The brown dog tick, also called the kennel tick, is common across the U.S. It is unique among ticks because it can thrive indoors, making it a nuisance for kennels and homes with multiple dogs. The adult tick is reddish-brown and typically attaches around the ears or between a dog's toes. This tick rarely bites people, but may be a health threat to your pet. It carries ehrlichiosis and other serious diseases that affect dogs.

Deer Tick

Deer ticks feed on many types of mammals, including people. The adults are reddish-brown and thrive in wooded areas of the Northeast and Midwest. They are dangerous because they can transmit Lyme disease to dogs and people. Lyme disease can cause fever and joint pain and, occasionally, serious kidney disease in dogs.

American Dog Tick

One of the most common ticks is the American dog tick, which feeds on people as well as dogs. It's easy to spot the females because they have a large silver spot behind the head, and they swell to the size of a small grape after feeding. These ticks can transmit Rocky Mountain spotted fever, but only if they are attached for at least 5-20 hours. This disease can be fatal in dogs and may cause serious symptoms in people.

Signs of Tick-Borne Diseases

Lyme disease, Rocky Mountain spotted fever, and ehrlichiosis cause similar symptoms in dogs, including:

- Loss of appetite
- Fever
- Swollen lymph nodes
- Joint swelling or pain

These diseases can have serious complications, so prompt treatment is essential. Tick-borne diseases are rare in cats.

Lyme Disease Vaccine for Dogs

There is a vaccine to protect against Lyme disease in dogs, but it is recommended only for pets in high-risk areas. It is usually given in two doses with a yearly booster. It's best to ask your vet if the vaccine is appropriate for your pet.

Other Tick Concerns in Dogs

In addition to transmitting diseases, ticks can cause other health problems in dogs, including:

- Blood loss
- Anemia
- Skin irritation or infection
- Tick paralysis

Tick paralysis refers to muscle weakness caused by a toxin produced by certain ticks. Most dogs recover quickly once the ticks are removed.

Ticks and People

People are susceptible to many of the same tick-borne diseases that affect dogs. Lyme disease is probably the best known, with one of the first symptoms being a bull's-eye rash. You can't catch tick-borne diseases directly from your pet, but you can be bitten by the same ticks. You may also be exposed by touching a tick's blood while removing the parasite from your pet.

Ticks and Your Home

Ticks prefer warm, grassy areas and may thrive in unruly sections of your yard. The brown dog tick can also live and reproduce inside your home. Its favorite hiding spots include cracks, curtains, under rugs and furniture, and behind radiators.

Keeping the Home Pest-Free

The first defense is to make your yard inhospitable to fleas and ticks. Mow the lawn regularly, trim shrubs, rake leaves, and keep garbage covered so it won't attract rodents. Inside the home, vacuum carpets often with a rotary brush or beater bar. Mop hardwood floors with detergent every week. And wash all bedding frequently.

Dangerous Natural Remedies

Several natural flea and tick remedies can cause severe reactions in cats and dogs. These include:

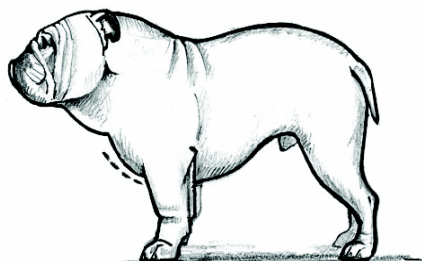

- Geranium
- Lavender
- Eucalyptus
- Pennyroyal oil
- Garlic and onion

Check with your vet before giving your pet any type of herbal remedy.

OFFICIAL STANDARD

Fullness of the brisket can be observed in front of the forelegs from side view and is an indication of correct placement of shoulders.

CHEST – The chest should be very broad, deep and full.

UNDERLINE – The body should be well ribbed up behind with the belly tucked up and not rotund.

Well tucked up behind the ribs.

BACK & LOIN – The back should be short and strong, very broad at the shoulders and comparatively narrow at the loins.

Wide shoulders, barrel ribs, and a narrow loin area give the Bulldog a “pear shape” when viewed from the top. A back of correct length creates a balanced appearance and facilitates correct Bulldog movement.

LIPS – The chops or “flews” should be thick, broad, pendant and very deep, completely overhanging the lower jaw at each side. They join the underlip in front and almost or quite cover the teeth, which should be scarcely noticeable, when the mouth is closed.

BITE-JAWS – The jaws should be massive, very broad, square and “undershot”, the lower jaw projecting considerably in front of the upper jaw and turning up.

The jaw should come out far enough to present an inverted U, rather than be covered by the flews and look like an inverted V. A wide jaw with good distance between the canine teeth adds to the desired inverted U appearance of the jaw that sets the Bulldog apart from other breeds.
